

How to Process an Interruption Request

- 1) You will receive an email notification whenever a student, for whom you are the assigned First or Second academic approver, submits an Interruption request. You can access Interruption requests in two ways:

Accessing a Request via Email Notification

- a. When you receive an email notification, a clearly marked hyperlink to the request page will be included. Click on the link to directly access the request in Salesforce.

Access a Request via Salesforce Login

- a. To access the request form without clicking on the email link, log in to Salesforce here using your standard LSE login credentials.
- b. You will be taken to a dashboard called All Apps which has a link to the Change of Circumstances App. If it does not appear, you can navigate to it by clicking on the app launcher (9-dots symbol) on the left-hand side and selecting Change of Circumstances. If the app doesn't appear in the list, click View All to view the full list.

- 2) You will see a dashboard called My Reviews to Action. To open a request, click on its blue number in the Request Name column under My Pending Reviews. An example is circled in green in the screenshot below.

Please ensure you provide information required by RDSC for consideration of this request, including your comments on any work plans and supervisory and additional support requirements. Advice is available from the PhD Academy.

Before the student submitted this application it is expected that the options (and any potential issues) will have been discussed with supervisors and/or a relevant departmental contact. This is to ensure that:

- the student's wellbeing is supported and that plans are reasonable, academically appropriate and realistic;
- academic and supervisory support can be provided throughout the remainder of the degree programme; and
- alternative options have been considered.

- If the student has submitted any documentation to support their request, you'll see it under Files. You can view it without downloading by clicking on the file's title. You are also able to add your own files.

- 6) Once you have reviewed the request, answer the questions on the left-hand side (yellow border in the screenshot above). Decide whether to Recommend, Not Recommend or Cancel the student's request. You should only cancel the request if the student asks you to i.e. they wish to withdraw the request.

A screenshot of a web form titled "Please confirm your decision on the student's request". It features three radio button options: "Recommended", "Not recommended", and "Cancelled". Below these options is a red "Submit" button. An upward-pointing arrow is visible on the left side of the form.

- 7) Click Submit.
- 8) Scroll down to see the request's Review History. If you are the second reviewer, this is where you'll see how the first reviewer completed the Scorecard.

A screenshot of the "Review History" section in an application. It shows a list of reviews for a request titled "1st Review: Interruptions & Extensions (PhD)". The first reviewer is "Salma AA-Supervisor" with a decision of "Recommended". The review is dated "09/12/2020, 12:16". Below the reviewer information, there are four questions with their respective answers:

Navigating the Change of Circumstances App

In the Home tab of the app, you'll see four ways of viewing the various requests associated with you:

- My Reviews to Action: a list of requests that have been assigned to you to make a decision on.
- In Progress Requests List: a list of all requests assigned to or shared with you which are at one of the review stages.
- In Progress Requests Kanban: as above, but displayed in groups to allow you to see at which review stage each request is in the process.

- Completed CoC Requests: a list of all requests assigned to or shared with you that have been completed – either by being approved by the PhD Academy, cancelled, or not approved at any stage.
